Doubts German's Ability to very well disposed toward France and therefore with a friendly country, absolutely impartial, with a great fund of business knowledge and a great fund of common sense. It is a body of that kind, it seems to me we would find a way to ascertain how much Germany can pay and once we have done that, then we could march together to compel her to pay."

The former Premier's address follows:

MAKES PLAIN BEGINNING

I shall claim your indulgence whilst I am giving a calm, unemotional, unbiassed view of the position in Europe. The condition of Europe is of importance to every great business community throughout the world, and the greatest business community of all, the United States of America, is no exception. You can afford to put up with these disturbances better than we can, but I have had some evidence since I reached these hospitable shores that they are prejudicially affecting some important sections of your producers and in the end it will reach all. Representatives of your farmers have informed me that they are suffering very materially because of the serious impairment of the purchasing capacity of Europe. The European need of your product is as great as ever. Nay, it is greater than ever, but the capacity to pay and therefore to purchase is less than it has been for many a year.

Europe is like a bagged man standing in front of the plate-glass window of a well-stocked store. His need of clothes is infinitely greater than that of any one else, but he is making extensive purchases inside. His need of food is more urgent than that of the well-fed gentleman who is coming out after a good meal; for he can buy neither food to satisfy hunger, nor clothes to cover his nakedness.

TOO POOR FOR TRADE

Until European prosperity is restored, that continent cannot be relied upon as a customer for world products.

What is the matter with Europe? Exhaustion. Europe is exhausted after the most terrible struggle any continent ever passed through. Between ten and fifteen millions of her people have been killed, and millions more have been maimed and have become a burden on the resources of other nations. Eighty thousand millions of dollars were spent and lost by the belligerent countries in waging war and scattering death and destruction. The machinery of trade and commerce is almost completely shattered. Hunger and plague stalk through Europe, destroying young and old with their cruel fangs. Every day I read of bread riots where men are shot down for things as trivial as bread to feed their hungry children.

How many children have died as the result of this war? No one can tell; but the Recording Angel is keeping an accurate account of every little head that droops. This is the condition of Europe five years after the war is over.

Why doesn't Europe settle down? The people of Europe are industrious and hard working, and in time they will repair the ravages of war and the time would be considerably shortened if it were not for one or two disturbing elements.

SOURCE OF TROUBLE

What are they? When a man is convalescing, his recovery is sometimes disturbed by the development of some old ailment or local irritation. That is the trouble with Europe. First of all we had the Russian revolution. I will not dwell upon that for things are moving rapidly in that quarter. The bringing of Russia into conference with the rest of Europe at Genoa had a salutary effect. It produced a better feeling and the solemn compact entered into at the conference by the Russian representatives would not engage in any acts of aggression against its neighbors has been substantially honored. I will, therefore, say no more about the Russian situation.

Undoubtedly the most serious local disturbance is that which is associated with the question of reparations. Upon this point I should like to dwell for it is the problem of the moment. It is the problem that dominates the future of world peace.

I propose to give you with your permission, the British view of this problem; not merely mine, but that of the two governments that succeeded mine in no far as I am able to appreciate their attitude.

BRITISH STAND TRADITIONAL

The British view is a traditional one. This is not the first great European war that Britain has engaged in. She has upon two or three other occasions been forced to enter into combination for the

LOCAL DOCTOR IN DOPE NET

Dr. George Malsbury, Nurse and Two Others Held to Answer Charge of Selling Drugs

With the arrest of a prominent local physician, his nurse and two other men and the seizure of more than $5000 worth of cocaine, morphine and heroin, police yesterday believed they had brought to an end the activities of one of the city's largest and most high class dope rings.

The physician, Dr. George Malsbury, 50 years of age, with offices at 943 Pacific Mutual Building, collapsed when members of the police narcotics squad broke into his office late yesterday and announced that he was under arrest. The doctor was taken into custody when it was ascertained, $400 in marked bills was found in his possession. It was found the same bills had been given by Detective Lieutenant D. M. Jones a few moments before to an employee in Malsbury's office for the purchase of an ounce of morphine.

NURSE ARRESTED

Mrs. Belle Crow, 35 years of age, a nurse in the employ of Dr. Malsbury, was arrested by Lieut. Jones and Officers Littlejohn and Lash. According to the police, the activities of Dr. Malsbury came under surveillance of the police several days ago, following the arrest of Mr. and Mrs. Francis Deane in their apartment at 521 1/2 South Main street. At the time of the arrest, the police suspected the couple of being dope peddlers but because of lack of sufficient evidence a charge of vagrancy only was filed against them. The man and woman are now serving a sixty-day sentence on that charge in the City Jail.

TRACING SOURCES

"There is no doubt but what a large amount of dope has been distributed out of legitimate appearing offices," Lieut. Jones said. "We have been endeavoring for some time to trace the source of a large portion of the supply of dope which has been finding its way into the hands of a select clientele and among a few select peddlers. In the face of evidence, we believe that we have put our hands on one of the larger sources of supply."

TWO HELD

H. D. Moody, 28 years of age, and John Campbell, 35, said by police to be middle men in the dope peddling business, are being held on suspicion of felony. Campbell, it is charged, accepted the $400 from Lieut. Jones, who had purpose of overthrowing despotisms that were threatening the liberties of Europe, and she has invariably played a leading part in the most important sections of the world. Europe is like a bagged man standing in front of the plate-glass window of a well-stocked store. His need of clothes is infinitely greater than that of any one else, but he is making extensive purchases inside. His need of food is more urgent than that of the well-fed gentleman who is coming out after a good meal; for he can buy neither food to satisfy hunger, nor clothes to cover his nakedness.

Twice Saved France

So when Britain today takes up a temperate and restrained attitude before the spirit of vengeance which she is simply pursuing a traditional policy which upon two occasions saved France from the fate of Napoleon, she is not only saving France, but she is saving the world.

What is the British attitude toward this limited, but all important question of reparations? It is this: That Germany ought to pay to the limit of her capacity, but she should not be allowed to wanton damage upon neighbors who were only anxious to live in peace and to be free by every principle of jurisprudence which obtains in every civilized land, she is liable to make good the damage she has done.

But she can only pay to the extent of her capacity and that capacity must be reasonably interpreted. Any attempt to extort more than a country can pay stands in the way of recovering what she has lost. Britain is opposed to any policy which utilizes the obligation to pay reparations as a means of destroying the prosperity, the well-being and the integrity of the defeated country.

It is therefore a question of capacity. What can Germany pay? Here the world is confronted with almost a new problem. Here the world is confronted with almost a new problem. Here the world is confronted with almost a new problem. Here the world is confronted with almost a new problem.

QUESTION OF METHOD

When you are considering what a country can pay it is no use reckoning up and assessing the value of her assets, land, forests, railways, canals, factories. There are some people who say, 'Are not these valuable possessions worth many thousands of millions of dollars and cannot Germany hand over a proportion of them for the payment of reparations?'

"How? That is the problem. She cannot transfer her railways to France nor her forests nor her mines. She can send so many tons of coal across and so much timber and that she is prepared to do. The shortage in the coal deliveries at the time of the occupation of the Ruhr was trivial. You may say she can hand over shares in her factories and mines and other assets but how are you to cash them? The receipts are in marks and the dividends are in marks and until you restore the value of the mark these receipts are worthless for the purpose of transmission to any other countries. I think of no other way in which a continuous debt of this kind can be liquidated. A country that does not sell outside cannot pay outside. You can part with foreign securities held by many but at best those are limited and if you were to concede them all, that would be a concession that you cannot pay one-thirtieth of the claim of reparations.

Now I want to make it clear that when Britain takes up this line it is because she has a larger experience in international trade and finance than any other country in the continent of Europe and therefore there is a greater appreciation in that country of the practicality in the conclusion of a peace treaty. Britain has every interest in the exacting of reparations from Germany. She has a very large claim of her own. Twenty per cent of the total has been allocated to the British Empire. Germany sunk $400,000,000 tons of our shipping. She destroyed a good deal of property and in addition to that there is the claim in respect of compensation to those who were mutilated or killed and no one can deny that to give up that claim that we can.

The war cost us more than any service of intelligent, patriotic, law-abiding citizens. In the time of war an educated citizenship is an unprecious asset."

COOLIDGE'S MESSAGE

President Coolidge's message to the Supreme Court today follows: "Let me express to you first of all, and through you to the supreme court of the United States, my appreciation of the consideration which you have shown and which prompted you to forego a personal meeting. It is an example of friendly thoughtfulness and shows a real desire to spare the President those demands on his strength which, however pleasant they may be to him, necessarily result in some time and energy which, in the present state of the country, may well be devoted to more serious business."

TRACING SOURCES

"There is no doubt but what a large amount of dope has been distributed out of legitimate appearing offices," Lieut. Jones said. "We have been endeavoring for some time to trace the source of a large portion of the supply of dope which has been finding its way into the hands of a select clientele and among a few select peddlers. SPORTS CHAMPION

Three world champions in a row appear to be an achievement beyond the reach of the ablest manager.

There are a number of reasons for this, not the least of which is percentage. No club figures to do this, and particularly against the same opponent for three successive years. Any team which ever won a league championship seriously figures to copy once in three years, and by the same token the other club does not figure to take three in a row.

The Giants playing three different clubs in as many years, might have stood a better chance, but even then a clean sweep would have been only a remote possibility. Percentage rules in the general scheme of things are no less a factor in baseball. Then there is the element of luck, the factor which would not be an unbroken line of it to turn in a trio of world-series conquests.

But there is another handicap, rather an insuperable one, purely psychological, and created largely by the situation, and it is doubtful whether any manager will ever be able to overcome it. This is the law of results. When a ball team is good enough to win a league championship for you, and on top of this a world series, you will hesitate about making any radical changes. And if the year following it wins a pennant and a world championship you again will hesitate. By that time you may be so set in your ways that any change made might be for the worse. And the third time that conclusion is a pennant. Being still good enough to do that, you naturally believe it capable of repeating again in the world series. Anyway, by that time it is too late to make any changes and it is the best strategy available.

But the life of a championship ball team is not long. The wear and tear of three years may not show so much during a long league race, but it is likely to become evident when the club is put to a supreme test. After three years, as a rule, deterioration has set in, and this need not be very apparent to strip a ball team of its great greatness.

That is the way the Cubs went. They were good enough to win in their own league in 1910, but they experienced difficulties, just as the Giants did this season, and then went down with a crash against the Athletics. The Giants, like all ball teams, have been in the cycle of repetition of history. They may come back, as the Cubs did after falling to win in their own league in 1909, but it probably would be for only a final flash. Great ball teams never have been perpetuated for a protracted span. That is because all parts wear and rebuilding in spots will not suffice. A new machine is required.

World-series strategy is greatly overplayed, as is all baseball strategy. There are only certain things to be done in a baseball game, a rather fixed formula for every situation. For instance, if a manager sends in a pinch hitter who hits it is great strategy, but a bum move if he fails to hit.

A pitcher twists a great game; the manager is credited with remarkable foresight for having selected him. As a matter of fact, the manner in which a pitcher warms up is no index to what is going to happen to him when he steps into the box. Of course, there is something in the ability to size up the strong and weak points of an opposition club collectively and individually. But there is more a matter of observation and the gift of retention. The effective strategy in baseball consists of getting the opposition's goat, and that is not a matter of blueprints, maps or mathematical calculations. Baseball is largely a question of slugging that old ball or not slugging it.

McGraw has been very successful, but he has never claimed any of the superlatives which some have attributed to him. That he is a wonderful leader and a keen baseball analyst there is no slightest doubt. His success is due largely to his genius for handling men. When a manager fails to drive them. Those are things which count on a season's play. Managers seldom are the deciding factors in a world series. They are of such short duration that a club in a sudden batting spurt or with a splash of extraordinarily good pitching may copy before the opposition gets started. A world series is a thing of opportunities and opportunists, and luck is a potent factor. This time Huggins had his team playing the better ball. In 1921-22 it was the Giants who wrote in their story.

McGraw almost at the apparently impossible. He strove for three in succession, carried his conquest almost to completion, only to see it crumble in the dust of one wild inning, and it is now too late for him to start over again.

Philadelphia Tennis Star Wins Champion's Approval

BY WILLIAM T. TILDEN.

World's Champion Tennis Player, 1920-21

(EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH)

PHILADELPHIA, Oct. 17.—Seven years ago out at Cynwyd Club, Philadelphia, Paul W. Gibbs introduced me to a little brown-eyed, knickerbockered, wild-haired youngster by the name of Carl Fischer, who was yanked off a court when he was wielding a racket apparently several sizes too big for him to be presented. Gibbs had told me he thought Carl had possibilities. We watched him for a while and I quite agreed. How Carl has fulfilled that promise of seven years ago is what I want to tell.

WORKED TOGETHER

He and I used to work together for hours on certain shots. Carl always wanted to know why and therefore in all of them, life instincts, thoroughly the fundamentals of stroke and footwork. He was a good young player, but never outstanding as was Vincent Richards. The Philadelphia and Pennsylvania State junior titles were his, but never a national title. Yet Fischer steadily improved and steadily worked on his game. He had periods of terrible discouragement, times when he lost matches to dubs, who were two classes below him, due to Fischer's shots going off at the worst moment. Slowly he forged to the front. Four years ago he gained the Philadelphia Church Cup team. At that time he was occasionally beating Dr. P. B. Hawk and Stanley Pearson, but always proved easy for man like Wallace Johnson or H. N. Williams, 2nd.

The season of 1923 found Carl Fischer at the top of his game. He pushed Wallace Johnson to the limit in the Philadelphia championship in the Church Cup matches. He lost to Burman Bell, of Boston, on a soft court, but redeemed himself next day by defeating Dean Mathey, of New York. Then came the delays. He romped home in the national intercollegiate championship, beating Phil Bettina, Frank Anderson and Gertrude Emerson. The Pennsylvania State event saw his most remarkable victory when he eliminated H. N. Williams, 2nd. The reaction from this win was so great that he proved easy for Wallace Johnson in the final. In the Rhode Island event he won by a 6-2 margin, defeated Fukuda, Rice, Niles and Voshell in succession. The following week at Longwood he carried Williams to five sets in five. In Seabright he gave Williams another victory, but Southampton placed Fischer on the pinnacle of his glory, for here he defeated Bob and Howard Kinsey and Peck Griffin.

BRITISH COLT IS REAL CHAMPION

Jester as his only rival. The track was fast again and Papyrus, showing a remarkable rally in the last furlong, won by a neck.

RACES AT ASCOT

Then the racing scene shifted over to Ascot, where royalty wagers with bookies on the outcome of thoroughbred race events. Papyrus was sent against the best 3-year-olds of the empire and for the first time he had a taste of defeat coming in third to Tower Guard and Legality. It was a five-furlong dash and eleven of the greatest 3-year-olds in the world faced the barrier. The time was 1:00 3-5, over a soggy track, with Tower Guard always in first place three lengths ahead of Papyrus, who had run the route a length back of Legality. An inexperienced jockey had leg up on Papyrus and the hitherto unbeaten colt was not given any too much the best of it. Then came the running of the Princess stakes on June 20, 1922, at Chertsey, when Papyrus was old classic of the year in England, in which sixteen of the best baby runners in the continent faced the starter. Papyrus carried the heavy impost of 134 pounds, which was also for a purse of about $100. Papyrus' average was to his competitors. The favorite, Krake, was outrun by Papyrus so far in the race that he was nowhere at the end. This race was over a soft track and the time for Papyrus 1:00 3-5, despite the heavy going.

The game will be called at 2:30 sharp. Beans Reardon will umpire.

(BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE)

PORTLAND (Or.) Oct. 17.—The board of directors of the Portland baseball club as announced today, contains the names of W. J. Kenworthy, former Portland manager, who was named from Pacific Coast League baseball by Commissioner Landis until 1921. Local sports writers profess to see in Kenworthy's election as a director the possibility that he may be manager of the club next year, though no announcement has been made to that effect. Officers of the Portland club for 1924 were elected as follows: W. H. Klepper, president; Dr. Earl W. Morrow, first vice-president; Gus C. Moser, second vice-president; W. R. McDonald, secretary; Joseph Mauck, treasurer. The stockholders gave a vote of confidence to President Klepper, first Business Manager Fred B. Rivers.

How to Know Good Clothes

The facing of a good coat never bags out, when the coat is unbuttoned, as in illustration—

Point No. 13 To prevent this fault, the facing where it joins lining is HAND SEWN with linen thread to canvas foundation.

In good clothes weight or bulk in the inside chest pocket never pulls the front of the coat out of shape, as sketched—

Point No. 14 To avoid this happening, the front edge of inside chest pocket is HAND FASTENED to facing, and back of pocket is HAND FASTENED to canvas foundation.

The armholes of good clothes never look stretched out, causing the sleeves to pull the coat front into unsightly wrinkles, as illustrated—

Point No. 15 To prevent armholes from stretching and to eliminate possibility of wrinkles in coat front, the front and back of armholes, before sleeves are put in, are drawn in BY HAND with chain stitches of linen thread.

The collar on good clothes is never so short that the coat appears pulled up, nor is it so long that the collar is loose on the neck and shows in sketch—

Point No. 16 To avoid these faults the under-collar which determines the length of collar, is put on BY HAND, so length can be accurately adjusted and fullness properly distributed.

The under-collar of a good coat is never thick and clumsy where it joins the coat, as illustrated—

Point No. 17 To give this essential thinness, the under-collar is left raw edge and HAND SEWN to body of coat.

EXEMPTION SOUGHT FOR ESTATE FUNDS

PAYMENT OF MONEY DEVISED IN TRUST HELD CAPITAL, NOT INCOME

(BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE) WASHINGTON, Oct. 17.—Income tax exemption of payments made to beneficiaries of estates devised in trust, was urged today before Attorney General Daugherty by a large delegation of attorneys representing trust estates.

Heading the array of counsel were John W. Davis, former ambassador to Great Britain and former Gov. of New York. The Treasury and Justice Departments also were represented. It was indicated that about $200,000,000 in revenues was involved in questions at issue.

Attorneys for the estates and beneficiaries argued that under the 1918 income law revision, the payments made in case of a will providing annual allotments to legatees from a trust estate were capital and not income and therefore exempt from taxation. The Treasury Department is seeking to collect taxes on such payments, although a recent case in the northern New York district court was decided against the government.

ATLANTA, Oct. 17.—Rev. Caleb Ridley, known as the Ku Klux Klan and former pastor of an Atlanta church, was arrested here late today by the police on a charge of being drunk and operating an automobile. The arrest was made by Motorcyclist Officer L. E. Shumate, who said that in the machine driven by Dr. Ridley were two small bottles of whiskey.

In police station Dr. Ridley stated that he had driven out into the country when he was accused by a man who offered to give him some whiskey. He stated that he accepted the whiskey and before starting to town he took a drink.

OIL INDUSTRY INQUIRY ENDS

Attorneys-General Map Out Legislative Program

Twenty-four States Join in Permanent Organization

Committee Will Hold Early Washington Parley

(BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE) CHICAGO, Oct. 17.—Adopting resolutions for a forthwith conference with U. S. Atty.-Gen. Daugherty on conditions in the petroleum industry which they described as "chaotic, which threatened injury to the public and may disclose violations of the law," the attorneys-general of twenty-four states today closed their three days' conference.

Many recommendations also came out of the conference in the resolutions. These included a demand for a continued thorough investigation of the industry, a demand that proceedings be instituted to terminate all agreements and other unlawful practices, the suppression of competition or discrimination and the undue enhancement of the price of petroleum and petroleum products.

PROGRAM IN PART
In addition it was recommended that "special attention be given to the prevention of unnecessary and wasteful increase and duplication of service stations" that "all pipe lines be made common carriers, and that the ownership of pipe lines be divorced from the ownership of petroleum and the business of producing, refining or marketing petroleum" that there be changes in freight rates which "will permit the producers and refiners in the midcontinent once more to find a market for their products in competition with other sources of supply," and "that uniform grades and standards be established for petroleum and petroleum products."

In conclusion the resolutions demanded that "necessary additional legislation be carried into effect the recommendations and as shall be necessary to protect the interests of the public in petroleum and petroleum products, be enacted by the Congress and several states."

ORGANIZATION FORMED
It was decided to continue the conference as a permanent organization and a standing executive committee of nine was appointed to take up at once the conference with the United States Attorney-General.

This committee was as follows: O. S. Ellman, Nebraska; George Napier, Georgia; Herman L. Ekern, Wisconsin; Jay R. Benton, Massachusetts; A. V. Cox, Louisiana; John P. Rhodes, Kansas; Clifford L. Hilton, Minnesota; H. H. Cluff, Utah; and George Shurt, Oklahoma.

The conference with Mr. Daugherty will be taken up at once it was stated.

Italy, which has been playing up to all these countries with imperialistic war, is reported to be trying to form a Balkan bloc of her own, probably against Greece and Serbia. It is doubtful whether the Turks would give such a move any support, however, as there is a strong current of public and official opinion against foreign adventures.

The title recently was revived and was bestowed upon Mrs. Lloyd George by King George V.

(BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE) NEW YORK, Oct. 17.—Franklin Beadle, 55 years of age, of Plainfield, N. J., died in a restaurant at 114 West Forty-eighth street about an hour before he had expected to take a train for California, where he was to spend the rest of his days. He took his sister-in-law, Mrs. H. Waller of Plainfield, to the restaurant for a farewell dinner. His son was waiting for him at the Pennsylvania Terminal. Toward the end of the meal Mr. Beadle pitched across the table. An ambulance surgeon said he had died of heart disease.

Brentwood Country Club

Brentwood Country Club

SANTA MONICA

QUEEN OF OUTDOORS

Santa Monica is an aristocrat of nature, ruling a great democracy of recreation.

Because all the elements of year-around comfort, beauty and outdoor pleasure are combined here people are attracted. And because this land of outdoors is so large and diversified in its features and attractions all the better elements of society find something peculiarly adapted to them which they permanently adopt.

Brentwood Country Club is the leader of our recreation clubs. Cozy, homey and attractive, its simplicity, rich refinement and air of friendliness make a strong appeal to the visitor to tarry, relax and enjoy. Its golf course is one of the most pleasureable because it supplies all the elements of sport without unnecessary fatigue from walking and climbing, while the undulating terrane is pleasing to the eye. For these reasons the Women's Southern California Championship Tournament will be held here in April. Residents of Santa Monica could not desire a more attractive club.

The Beach Club and Swimming Club are attractive sand and bathing clubs, drawing people from Hollywood and Los Angeles as well as Santa Monica. The Santa Monica Athletic Club is an up to date club for our business and professional men.

Interesting bridle trails cover mountains, canyons and beach. The popularity of riding is increasing and Santa Monica supports three riding stables.

Deep sea fishing is excellent. Fishing boats may be chartered. The sport is keen.

The Uplifters Club, composed of many prominent Los Angeles business men, chose Santa Monica for their outdoor home after five years of careful search.

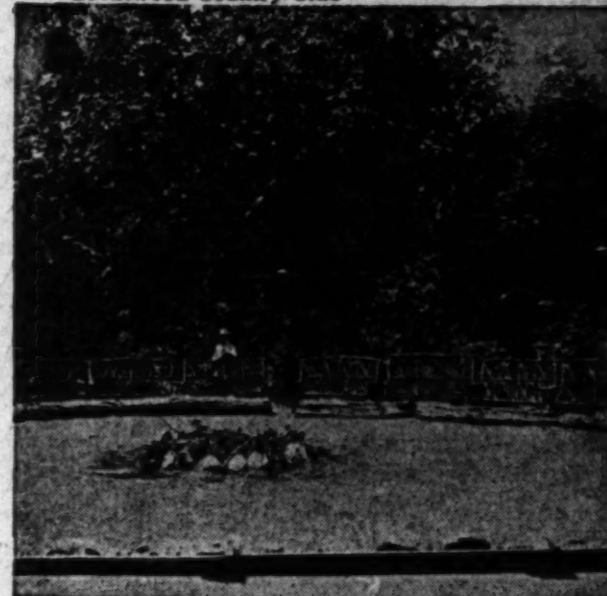

Santa Monica is the natural home of sport. It lead in the days of the tallyho and tandem. It started cricket and polo in Southern California. It had the Vanderbilt automobile road races. It is internationally known as the home of tennis champions and contestants. And, to prove our democracy, the State quito tournament was recently held at our municipal quito grounds.

The government aviation field located here gives us the newest in sport.

Where in all the world is such a grand natural amphitheater as is formed by the mountains, plateaus and palisades overlooking Santa Monica Bay—17 miles wide and eleven miles inland—which should, not long hence, be the greatest yacht rendezvous in the world. Hundreds of thousands of people could view yacht races far out to sea.

When the breakwater is built and we have one or more great hotels as a center for society Santa Monica will be a name familiar around the world.

more than a name
NAME itself is of no value without the personality and achievement it represents. A product may be named after the strength of a name alone, but examination shows that the name in such case is without substance.
In business any recognized work that others will not do to its reputation to bring profit to themselves.
The public is not deceived by claims which are unsupported by achievement. Nor is the public deceived by a name alone, which is but the semblance of the things that name represents.
Moody's Rating Books possess more than a name.
They have behind them the presence, the personality and the achievement of the man himself, whose name has become to thousands of investors a symbol for sound authority and integrity.
Moody's Investors Service, founded by John Moody in 1909, originated and maintains the system of security ratings used by investors and bankers in every city

BOND QUOTATIONS
Buying Increases
[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE]
NEW YORK, Oct. 17.—The volume of trading in the bond market
today, but price movements held within a narrow area.
Investment houses with wire connections reported a considerable increase in buying orders, but stated many orders limited the purchase price and had caused little advance in the general list.
High-grade investment railroad mortgages were in demand, while the secondary issues fell off slightly.
Public utility bonds were active, but generally shaded yesterday's prices. Speculative selling of Virginia-Carolina Chemical 7½ and warrants, pushed these bonds down 3 3-4 points.
Foreign government issues were dull, with Norwegian and Danish bonds showing further recession.
Active United States government bonds were relatively steady in dull trading.
NEW YORK, Oct. 17.—Following are the day-ly quotations on bonds listed on the New York Stock Exchange. Furnished by Lagan & Bryan,

OWNED BY THOSE IT SERVES

What Makes a Refinery Successful —by Richard Florian Ex-official Standard Oil Co.

1. Location

THE first essential of a successful refinery is a location that provides a maximum of transportation facilities both for crude oil and refined products at a minimum of cost.

The location of the Western Refinery Company's 100 acre site at Wilmington Harbor is but 9 miles from Signal Hill and crude oil supply will be brought to refinery by pipeline — the most economical method of transporting oil.

Our plant site is located on a paved highway, two railroads, and within 1500 feet of deep water dockage at Wilmington—giving us every transportation facility for placing our refined products on the markets of the world.

Furthermore our site is 75 feet above both the grade level of the tracks and above sea-level — making possible the loading of tank cars and steamers by gravity without handling costs.

Our saving in transportation charges over other refineries less favorably located is sufficient in itself to pay a handsome dividend upon our capital invested. There is no refinery in Southern California that can handle its products as cheaply or with less cost in pipeline than the WESTERN REFINING COMPANY.

"Progress" "Eh What?"

Pipe lines now practically completed from Santa Fe Springs and Signal Hill to the Harbor.

I am now running lines into Torrance, Lomita and Compton fields. Two weeks from today should see them all jake.

Five wells now drilling for the "Julian Petroleum Corporation" and just starting five more rigs in wonderful territory.

Have secured leases on over a thousand acres of mighty good-looking territory.

Our first 15 Service Stations go into operation on choice locations November 20th. "Oh, you Defiance Gas."

8,000,000 barrels of steel storage nearing full completion. "COME ON, YOU CHEAP CRUDE."

But I've found out that, even though we carry a watch, "It's hard to sleep between the ticks."

OIL NEWS
BY HOWARD C. KEGLEY
Four new wells, producing about 7000 barrels of oil, have been placed on production in the Santa Fe Springs field during the past few days. The new wells ranged in size from 500 to 4000 barrels. All of the wells are in proven territory and on leases where larger producers have been located.

MAN IN JAIL AS STEALER OF AIRPLANE

Flyer Who is Said to Have Stolen Machine in September Returned from Yuma

One of the few men ever arrested on a charge of airplane theft is in the Los Angeles jail. The prisoner, Paul Sparks, an aviator, is accused of taking a flying machine from Rogers' Airport and flying with it to Arizona. Sparks, according to the police, obtained the machine from the airport on September 7. Despite persistent search little information could be obtained as to his location until a companion with whom he had a quarrel informed the police. His arrest followed. Los Angeles police declare the aviator had planned to sell the plane in Yuma and then after obtaining the money intended to fly away with it again to another section of the State.

Says She Was Quoted Wrong in Gift Talk

Taking exception to statements credited to her to the effect that matrons in the city and county jails have no right to accept gifts from prisoners, Miss Rose M. Ruff, matron at the County Jail, declared to the Times last night that she had been misquoted in her address before the Association of Welfare of Sentenced Offenders in the State of California. Miss Ruff declared that she is in favor of the provisions in the State law permitting women matrons to accept gifts from prisoners. She said that she had been misquoted in her address before the Association of Welfare of Sentenced Offenders in the State of California. How to Reduce Varicose Veins

Rub Gently and Upward Toward the Heart as Blood in Veins Flows That Way. Many people have become dependent because they have been led to believe that there is no remedy that will reduce swollen veins and bunions. If you will get a two-ounce original bottle of Moore's Emerald Oil (full strength) at any first class drug store and apply it night and morning as directed you will quickly notice an improvement which will continue until the veins and bunions are reduced to normal. Moore's Emerald Oil is extensively used in hospitals and in factories as first aid to the injured. It is a balsam, yet most powerful germicide and two ounces lasts a very long time. Indeed, so powerful is Emerald Oil that soft bunions, goitre, swollen glands and warts are reduced. It is one of the wonderful discoveries of recent years and persons who are disappointed with its use can have money refunded. Your druggist can supply you.—(Advertisement.)

BACK RIDING

By that time I had climbed back and about half past five I was to draw rein and dismount. I could not see if I could aid him, and I made me lose the whole ride. The noble horse did not seem to understand. It gave its head a shake which jerked the rider from under its neck. I could only cry "Whoa!" But what I should have cried was "Whoa!"

That beast didn't know "Whoa!" meant. It set off at a trot and I suppose the books would call it a bristling. That had always been well to me, but it certainly didn't feel good.

First my feet bounced out of the stirrups and I couldn't get back in again. Then I bounced clear out of the saddle. But fortunately it was a long horse, and most instantly I bounced back in again. Then I bounced out forward and virtually all of me was clinging around the horse's neck. I must have looked just like the Sloan finishing a race.

While all this was happening the stable-keeper had run in the assistance of my fallen tempter. I had disappeared in a leafy thicket. The sides of the hill were thickly lined with drooping eucalyptus trees. Now I saw that I observed how they resembled those weeping willows so popular in graveyards.

It was a fine, fresh morning and the noble animal seemed to have sprung gallant—inspiring of vision of my last sad ride. Then it reared a while. At least, I think that was what it did. It certainly was what it did to me.

It was four hours later when the intelligent steed felt the pangs of hunger and trotted back to his stable. I was still on deck, though he had essayed to dismount me several times.

As soon as I was rescued I looked about for my friend. He had gone and left no address. My car-sickness, as he had hoped, appeared to be utterly cured.

I have come to the conclusion that for most of us who have been riding in automobiles and cars, horseback riding is a thing that is inadvisable. It is a way for us to enjoy it is to be viciously, through the horse's action or screen. Then we still think of ourselves as like centaurs. But it is not so. It may be more thrilling play leap frog to and fro over a saddle pommel for four hours. It is also a lot more gassy.

How it looks to Mars

[From the Martian Observer]

Coming as the efforts of the league of Earthites usually are, and then they do something that proves their skulls are not entirely vacant. In France just now, for instance, a law is proposed which would restrict the driving of automobiles to persons whose nervous systems have been examined by those who are technically called brain surgeons. It is rather amusing to think that this move is being made in France, for that country has been comparatively free from such a thing as a brain surgeon. It is a little like a grade crossing, and the people generally are rather careless drivers. Even the last driver of a car who is noted for being a Parisian, who is noted for being a Parisian, rarely kills anybody on an occasion like this.

WOMAN HIT BY HURTLER BOY LOSES

Jury Finds for Street-Car Company in Damage Action for Personal Injuries

It is no part of the street car company's duties to guard pedestrians against flying boys set in motion by street cars, a jury in Judge J. Perry Wood's court found yesterday after brief deliberation.

The case was that of Mrs. Anna Blanche Jones against the Los Angeles Railway Company for $25,000 damages for injuries she sustained when a boy hurtled into her arms after being struck by a street car.

Mrs. Jones asserted that as the boy was sent through the air and into her arms by a street car the company was responsible for her injuries. The jury, however, held otherwise and found for the defendant.

The boy who played the role of a flying bullet between the street car and Mrs. Jones was Wesley Powers, 12 years of age. Wesley was crossing the intersection of Santa Barbara avenue and Hoover street when the car struck him. He flew through the air and landed squarely in the arms of Mrs. Jones, who was waiting on the street corner. She was knocked to the ground and painfully injured. The accident occurred on November 4, 1922.

LONG DRIVE TO ATTEND DINNER

Woman Editor Motors 125 Miles to Be Guest at Luncheon Here

Driving 125 miles for the sole purpose of attending a luncheon at the Biltmore Hotel, Miss Lydia Herman of Bakersfield holds the record thus far as a luncheon guest at that hostelry.

Miss Herman, who is said to be the youngest woman newspaper editor in California, wanted a first-hand account for her paper, the Wasco News, of the luncheon given by the local organization of the D.A.R. She set out for Los Angeles in her car in the morning, arriving a little before noon.

She participated in the lunch, got her story and immediately departed for home. She was accompanied on the trip by her mother, Mrs. J. H. Herman.

OLD FIRMS INDICTED

The names of the companies under which the operations here were carried on are not available and will not be until after the trial. The charges against the accused are in the general line of previous indictments setting out the illegal use of the mails in that certain financial returns were promised for those who invested in the units of the Texas and California Corporations; also setting out charged fraud in the securing of permits to sell the stock to local investors. These cases, like others reported by the grand jury, involved fraud not only in a failure to carry out the terms under which the permits to sell were granted and the diversion of the funds secured from unit sales from the purpose it was announced they would be devoted, but a lack of all in what was said to have been "proven territory." It is estimated that the sales of the three sets of defendant units in the neighborhood of $500,000.

The bonds in the oil cases varied from $500 to $15,000. David T. Cahill, who represents the government in both prosecutions, refused to state what the bonds were in the Wilson-Cox case.

This end, the activities of the local Federal grand jury for a month, Mr. Cahill goes East tonight. Mr. Cahill will return to other oil cases to the jury. In his absence his assistants, Messrs. Nichols and Norquist, will remain on the ground and collect evidence from victims to be used in other prosecutions.

Other indictments were returned as follows:

Clarence Young, violation of the Mann Act; Jose Bullun, violation of the tariff law of 1921, prohibiting the bringing of liquor into the United States from a foreign country; Frank Fisher, impersonation of a Federal officer.

The warrants of arrest involving local oil promoters will be served today by U. S. Marshal Sittel.

Quits Man She Aided After Her Mother Shot Him

Mrs. Winifred Cramer, who aided with her husband, Paul R. Cramer, in a quarrel between him and his mother-in-law, Mrs. Mattie Hannon, in which Mrs. Hannon shot and seriously wounded him, today obtained a divorce in Judge Clegg's court.

The shooting of Cramer took place Aug. 12, 1922, a bullet fired from Mrs. Hannon's gun entering his body just as he drove up in his car to the curb in front of his home. Mrs. Hannon served a term in the County Jail following the shooting affair but was recently released on probation.

Mrs. Cramer, who was represented by Attorney S. S. Hahn, charged cruelty, stating that her husband had kicked her out of bed and called her names and refused to provide suitable clothing for her.

Sheriff Begins Quiz on Affairs in Women's Jail

Sheriff Traeger and Dep. Dist. Atty. Ryan yesterday began an investigation into conditions in the women's quarters of the County Jail.

The investigation was started some weeks ago by the grand jury but dropped when inmates called before it proved rather reticent. A number of women prisoners were questioned by the Sheriff and Mr. Ryan. They stated that nothing was wrong with the jail.

The investigation will be continued today.

An increase in every line of business in the Los Angeles Internal Revenue district is indicated by a report completed yesterday by United States Collector of Internal Revenue Goodell, which shows an increase of revenue taxes listed for assessments in 1923 of $8,273,810.

The survey shows that from January 1 last, to the last inst. the total amount of taxes listed for assessment was $19,544,225, compared with $11,270,415 for the same period of 1922, a gain of 73 per cent.

Every class of taxes is represented in the $19,544,225 assessment. Figuring an average tax rate of 3 per cent the increase in taxes calls for $275,000,000 of new business in the Southern California district.

With a $7,500,000 reduction in income taxes, the collection for 1923 will reach the $40,000,000 mark, a pronounced gain over 1922, while theater admission

Homebuilders Win Tilt With City Inspector

That building construction began before the set-back ordinance of the City Council go into effect may proceed to completion, was the ruling of Judge Elliot Craig yesterday when he granted Edward R. Wiese and Ada R. Wiese a permanent injunction preventing the city officials from interfering with the construction of a home they were erecting on Scott street.

Following the passing of a city ordinance relating to the set-back ordinance on Scott street, J. J. Backus, chief building inspector, had notified them to stop all work on the building.

SHOVELS SCARE OFF WOULD-BE RANGERS

More than sixty applications have been filed for the civil service examination for rangers in the local forest reserve, to be conducted this city next Tuesday. No additional applications will be received. Many persons who applied for the examination sheets refused to go any further when they discovered that the rangers were expected to handle a pick and shovel when necessary and do hard manual work.

COFFEE HISTORIANS

1258 A.D.

Then Sheik Omar was banished from Mocha

NEARLY seven centuries have passed, but the name of Sheik Hadj Omar is still highly honored in Arabia.

Mocha, his native city, cast him out into the desert to die of starvation. He had dared to love the daughter of his king.

Yet banishment led to fame, for in his wanderings Omar discovered the coffee shrub and brought coffee berries back to Mocha. Then his praise was sung far and wide, and he gained a place in the legendary tales of his country.

But Omar could not offer even the King of Mocha such coffee as you may now enjoy—M.J.B. COFFEE.

M.J.B. COFFEE offers you the utmost in coffee satisfaction.
